A healthy workforce works as an asset to the company. It's when they are happy and healthy inside; they might work to their utmost efficiency. So how do we get a workforce that is healthy out and out? That's what pre-employment health checkups are for.

A significant step to acquaint employers with their fresh additions, pre-employment health checkup is an essential assessment measure to know the comprehensive health scenario of an individual, which might require the intervention of the employer.

Imperative for a steady long term growth, these checkups help identify any health issues beforehand so that it doesn't hamper progress eventually.

Last but not least, with the rising global cancer burden, our screening provides for early detection of cancers that may arise from the large intestines and the prostate for men, and cervical cancer for women..

Note:

The time between wellness checks depends on factors such as one's age, gender, risk factors for health problems, etc... although annual interval is generally advised, it is important to discuss with your doctor about the frequency of wellness check laboratory tests to best fit your individual health needs*
