The hustle and bustle, the daily grind that comes with living in Urban areas like Lagos make having a domestic staff a necessity, especially for working couples with young children

It is important as an employer of domestic staff to be sure of the current health status of these much-needed staff, such that the health of your household is not placed under health risks.

Domestic Staff screening tests are health tests conducted to provide you with the required information about your domestic help's health before they become part of the household.

These sets of tests screen for communicable diseases in the staff that works in homes.

Undergoing relevant health tests can assure you that they have no current health conditions that are easily transmittable.

The medical test also provides an opportunity for the staff to know their health status, threat, and risks.

It can also make them detect health issues so that they can make plans for treatments if needed.

You can access your tests at any of our facilities
